Gold, refined	11 5 7
Gold, unrefined	690 0 0
Opium	15 0 0
Total	£1506 1 4

The several produce auctioneers held their weekly sales of wool and sheepskins to-day. The quantity of wool offered was very small, only 90 bales, and not sufficient to test prices. The news from England has caused more caution to be exercised by our buyers, and has checked a rise in prices, which would have taken place had the result of the August sales shown the same high rates that were ruling during the May sales. The woolmarket is certainly easier than it was before the arrival of the English mail, and for some lots the prices realised show a decline of about 4d. to 1d., while in other lots full rates have been realised. In the present state the market quotations are nominally the same as last month, and until the new clip comes freely to hand it is impossible to give correct quotations. One or two small lots of the new clip have arrived, and are disposed of at satisfactory prices. Sheepskins are not so firm, and have given way about 1d. per lb. on the extreme rates lately ruling. The following was the result of the sales:—

Messrs. Mort and Co. catalogued 81 bales of wool, and sold 58. The only lots of any importance were 16 bales fleece, C, at 18½d.; 7 bales, K, 20½d.; and 6 bales grease, C, 11½d. Prices ranged as follows:—Fleece, 16d. to 20½d.; grease, 8½d. to 11½d.; locks, 8½d. to 1s. Sheepskins—About 3000 were disposed of at from 7d. to 9½d. per lb.

Messrs. Durham and Irwin sold by auction, to-day, 3000 sheepskins at from 7½d. to 9d. per lb.

Mr. O.B. Ebsworth, sold, to-day, by auction 3 bales of wool at the following rates:—Hand-washed, 18½d.; grease, 12½d.; also 9 bags of cotton in the seed, at 5½d. per lb. Three lots of sheepskins were sold at from 6½d. to 9½d. per lb.

Messrs. Fotheringham and Mullen will offer at auction, to-morrow (this day), ten cargo of Chilean flour ex Statesman, about 430 tons.

Business during the month has been very dull, but this is generally the season of the year when there is little doing. The new clip will shortly come to hand, and orders for the interior will have to be executed; we may, therefore, expect a general improvement in trade. The principal transactions during the month have been in flour, sugars, teas, and beers; but in other articles of daily consumption there has not been much doing, and prices show little, if any, alteration.

The failures that have taken place in Melbourne have caused large parcels of goods to be forwarded to this colony for sale, and this has checked any advance in those goods of which stocks were light. On the other hand we have done a steady trade with the neighbouring colonies of New Zealand and Queensland. The following is the latest report of the state of our markets:—

FLLOUR.—This market has been in a very unsettled state during the past fortnight, and the present quotations can hardly be relied on, buyers only purchasing small lots to meet actual requirements. Prices, however, as compared with the rates ruling last month, show a decline of 1s. to 1½s. per bushel, caused by several arrivals from Valparaiso, which were not expected; but as prices are maintained in South Australia, holders are of opinion that this fall is only temporary. The cargo of the Statesman, from Chile, is to be offered at auction to-morrow (this day), and the Sir George Grey, from California, on Monday, and this probably will test the real state of the market. The following are the quotations for the whole, at 2½s. per bushel:—Chile and California, £22 per ton. The millers quote fine flour at £23 per ton; seconds, £21 per ton. There has declined about 1s. per bushel on the highest prices, and the cargo of the Statesman, which was some inquiry for Adelaide wheat this week at 10s. 6d., Californian and Chile are quoted at 9s. per bushel.

GRAIN.—Ale, in bulk, has been inquired for, and large shipments of Maraca's bulk, and changed hands. Prices now rule about 5s. per bushel higher than last month; first brands are quoted at £7 to £7 10s. Porter in bulk is firmer, and holders are asking an advance of 1s. 6d. 1½s. to 2s. Bottled ale and porter are in fair demand at from 8s. to 9s. 6d., according to the brand. Brandy is a little firmer than last month, and has an upward tendency—Martell's is quoted at 9s. Ram is unaltered—50 sp. 3s. 3d. to 3s. 4d. 30 sp. 3s. 6d. to 3s. 7d. 20 sp. 3s. 11s. Whisky is very dull of sale, and is quoted at 3s. to 3s. 3d. In wines some transactions are reported in common ports at slightly improved rates.

TEAS.—The market is firm, and if it had not been for some large shipments from Melbourne prices must have advanced. Congees are quoted at from 10s. to 29 shillings; boxes 21s. to 24s. Hysonkins are almost unsaleable, and prices nominal.

SUGARS.—Are firmer, and prices of Manila sugars show an improvement of from 21 to 42 per cent. Large parcels of Manila C, are now taking hands during the month, holders are now asking 42½

BILLIARDS.—MR. JOHN ROBERTS.

The renowned billiard-player, Mr. John Roberts, arrived in Australia by the last trip of the steamship Great Britain, and early in the present month paid a professional visit to New South Wales, having engaged with Mr. O'Brien, the spirited proprietor of Tattersall's, and Mr. Lawrence, (late of the All-England Eleven), to play a series of matches in Sydney. Much as was expected from a player who has carried pre-eminence in the northern hemisphere, his performance with the cue in this colony was such as to astonish all beholders. The spacious and handsome hall of the School of Arts was admirably fitted up with tiers of seats, so as to afford each spectator a fair view of the play. The table was a fine specimen of colonial manufacture, the frame being of the native blackwood, which, when well-wrought and polished, has an extremely handsome appearance. This table was the production of Messrs. Alcock and Co., billiard table manufacturers, of Melbourne.

The first match was played on the 30th October. The attendance numbered between three hundred and four hundred persons. Mr. Fagan, who, we believe, has for nearly twelve months been a resident in this colony—and who, as a match-player, is scarcely excelled in the city—was the antagonist of Mr. Roberts on this occasion, and received 600 points out of 1000. From the commencement of the play Roberts, though apparently not playing to his own satisfaction, gained fast on his opponent, notwithstanding that Fagan was playing a very good game. Roberts reached 1000, and Fagan had scored 600. Roberts reached his second hundred, however, Fagan placed his score in a better position, and elicited considerable applause by making ten consecutive losing hazards off the red from the baulk, and then, in the next turn, he scored a pocket. When Roberts had made 200 his opponent's score stood at 605. It was not until Roberts got into his fifth hundred that he succeeded in scoring anything considerable from his favourite spot stroke. He then scored a break of 68, and made 1000, and then, in the next turn, he scored a pocket. When Roberts had made 200 his opponent's score stood at 605. It was not until Roberts got into his fifth hundred that he succeeded in scoring anything considerable from his favourite spot stroke. He then scored a break of 68, and made 1000, and then, in the next turn, he scored a pocket.

Roberts was 500 (with a break) to Fagan's 719. Roberts subsequently gained rapidly upon his opponent, with breaks of twenty, thirty, and forty, so that when Fagan was 800 Roberts had reached 933. Roberts then scored a break of 68, and made 1000, and then, in the next turn, he scored a pocket. When Roberts had made 200 his opponent's score stood at 605. We should greatly hesitate to receive the despatch of Mr. CARDWELL, or the debate in the British Parliament, as expressing the whole mind of the Home Government on the New Zealand question. Doubtless, it is difficult to face a philanthropic party with the unpopular idea that people who will not live in peace under the British Government must be reduced by force for the benefit of their neighbours, and even for their own advantage. It is a tempting thing to a British Ministry to use strong language in reference to the British expenditure—colonial impatience, the greediness of settlers, and the rapacity of contractors. But the British Ministry can hardly fail to see the true state of facts in New Zealand, and that the "philanthropists" at home are engaged in a scheme of delusion and destruction. The removal of the troops from New Zealand before the natives have felt that they are bound to submit to British law, (surely no heavy yoke) will leave the colonists open to serious dissensions. When those aggressions cease, there will certainly be no calls for British soldiers. Once withdrawn, they will have no doubt taken their leave for ever. We presume New Zealand, even in its weakness, would hardly irritate the ancient Britons, who sent to their Roman conquerors for legions to defend them against the incursions of bar-

The peninsula of Carpentaria offers a long coast line. Of this very little is known at present, but the presumption is that there must be a fair supply of rich low land eminently suited to tropical agriculture. In years to come this district may be rich in cotton, sugar, coffee, indigo, rice, &c. But population must become more dense before that is the case. There is plenty of land further south, and nearer to the old settled districts, and in a climate less oppressive to European constitution, where all these districts may be profitably grown; and it is in those districts that we must look for the first development of this kind of agriculture. A beginning is being made, very slowly and tardily it must be confessed; but when the profitability of tropical agriculture becomes once demonstrated,

In whatever form this service may be provided in the colonies, it ought to be assured. Every man is bound to contribute to the defence of that civil life and political constitution with which he is sheltered, and the benefits of which he enjoys. Military service may be compensated by other species of duties, or money may be paid in exchange with advantage to all parties; but the obligation is obvious, and ought never to be lost sight of by any prudent administration. A small but well disciplined force would be far better than a universal enrolment which should imply no training, and which should merely show a collection of uniforms on particular days, covering nothing but a slovenly and hobbling civilian, such as were so often described by travellers in the army of citizen soldiers in America, North and South.

Under the forms of the capot, that was thought to be a man in woman's clothing. This defence admits the facts, but there any force in the excuse? Is it the custom of French soldiers to go into places of worship among the unarmed people in the expectation of finding rebels? There they need to inflict seven wounds on a woman under some misapprehension of her sex? The whole affair exhibits a brutality in harmony with this disgraceful incident that at once assigns its true character—a wanton disregard of human life. The native teachers are not British subjects. The country they come from is too weak to offer any pretext to which M. GUILLAUME would deign to listen; but they will carry back to their own people a story of injustice and cruelty, of terror and suffering, by no means favourable to the French reputation. Their detention in irons and torture for five days on board a ship of war was a

The Protestant school is now closed. The teaching of the native language is everywhere forbidden; but liberty of worship is allowed to all. The prohibition to assemble in the Protestant church was withdrawn as soon as the population was reduced to 100 persons. "I am not," said Sir, "I have sought neither to blame nor to justify any one; it is enough to establish by facts which are incontestable that the Governor, in interposing his authority, has yielded to no pressure, has been deceived by no misrepresentation, and that he has done his duty. It is necessary to carry out the accomplishment of a plan arranged beforehand, and already in force on the mainland. I do not think it will be imprudent to say, that he has long determined upon it, and that, in order to be thoroughly satisfied, he has waited for the arrival of a new officer, under the command of an officer, who is young, as you say, but who has long been a teacher to his arrival in the position of an aide-de-camp. It was after this officer had gained some knowledge of the country, that he was allowed to establish a little school; but his design was known several months before in Port de France.
